Money Cannot Buy It
For Sight is Priceless!
BUT THE DIAMOND SPECTACLES WILL PRESERVE IT.

THE DIAMOND GLASSES,
Manufactured by J. P. SPENCER & CO., New York, are the Most Perfect Artificial Aids to the Sight. They are made under their own supervision, from Infinite Crystal Pebbles, melted together, and derive their name, "Diamond," on account of their brilliancy and brilliancy.
The Scientific Principle on which they are constructed brings the focus or centre of the lens directly in front of the eye, producing a clear and distinct vision, as in the natural healthy sight, and preventing all unpleasant sensations, such as glimmering and wavering of objects, dimness, &c., peculiar to all others in use.
They are mounted in the finest manner, in frames of the best quality, of all metals, and in all styles.
CAUTION.—None genuine unless bearing the trade mark of the manufacturer on every frame.

REPUBLICANS AND THEIR PARTY.

A party which has enjoyed a long lease of power, and which is therefore held accountable, not only for what it has accomplished, but for every omission suggested by individual opinion, very naturally becomes the target of criticism both from within and without its ranks. Every pet idea which has passed unrecognized, and every detail of policy that has failed to meet with universal approval, is made the subject of complaint, often as unreasonable as unjust.

This spirit of cavil, which exists at all times and in all parties, shows itself most prominently in campaigns like the present, involving the maintenance of great general principles, rather than the success of some one, central, overshadowing issue to kindle all the fires of party enthusiasm. To those who criticise without thinking and to others who may think too lightly of party allegiance, we commend the following sentiments which we copy from the N. Y. Tribune:—

We do not think it is assuming too much when we say that probably no party has ever been governed so much by its principles and so little by selfishness as the party that has ruled the country during the past decade. We do not deny that there have been Republicans who have proved less patriotic than its faith; neither do we deny that there are, and have been, Republicans tried in the main in principle, but fickle and spasmodic in their action. It is, perhaps, to these two classes that we owe many of the recent efforts to sap and mine the party. Some who have had an inadequate idea of its purposes and duties, think it has accomplished its mission, and, eager for change, and thirsting to be leaders in new movements, make haste to pull down the pillars of the temple to clear the way for their new creeds. The principles of the Republican party have become history. The platforms of parties are not always a true test of them. When a great faith is in the soul it shows itself, as opportunity offers, in works, and the Republican party has to offer the country a Republic preserved, Slavery abolished, the Republic reconstructed in peace, great highways of commerce built across the country, a Homestead law, and many other measures of justice and progress.

It has been doubted by the enemies of republican governments whether parties could be made the custodian of a governmental policy. The government is really a creature or exponent of the party which placed it in power, and in all governments there must be a careful and wise balancing of conflicting opinions. Are parties capable of making these judgments and sacrifices? We think they are. We think so far the Republican party has done it, and done it wisely. Nay, we fear the chief reason for picking holes of contention is the erroneous idea that the party has closed its work. Yet there is no party to-day which has stuck so important or principles so coherent. But half of the mighty work of organizing the Republic on a basis of freedom is done. Can its completion be safely left to the enemies of the system? The flippant mottoes of the Republican party talk mysteriously of Finance, but they are neither explicit in their views nor intelligible in their criticism of ours. If we wish to fund our debt at a lower rate of interest, the most sensible course is to prove that we are able and willing to pay our debts. That is just what Grant and the Republican Congress are doing.

WAR NOTES.

An ex-officer of the Army of the Potomac writing from Nancy, says: The dissatisfaction of the French Army and France with its Commanders, is loud and deep. We have almost arrived at the pitch reached in the French Revolutation of 1792, when for a French General to lose a battle was equivalent to the actual loss of his head. The Army, well attributes its disasters to the bad plans of its Generals.—The Queen of Prussia, responding to the congratulations of the citizens of Berlin, expressed her desire for peace, but added that the army demanded substantial guarantees for the future before ceasing hostilities.—Russia is alarmed at the state of affairs in Poland, the Baltic provinces favoring annexation to Germany.—The new French loan of a thousand million francs has all been subscribed.—Three more of the Villette rioters have been condemned to death.—The Belgians complain of violation of their neutral territory, by Prussian soldiers.—A story is related of a Prussian spy, who fired twice at a French officer near Rheims, supposing him to be McMahon.—The Tribune correspondent says the Chalons camp is deserted, and the army moving toward Rheims.—The Prussians, in requesting permission to transport the wounded through Holland and Belgium, assert that three-fifths of the wounded are French.—Both sides were, at last accounts, re-organizing their forces after the fatigue and loss of last week's fighting, and preparing for the fresh combinations which are to decide the next phase of the campaign.

RESOLUTIONS. At the Piscataquis County Republican Convention held at Dover on Wednesday the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That the Hon. Joshua L. Chamberlain is the preference of this Convention for U. S. Senator.

Resolved, That we believe in Grant and his Administration.

Resolved, That we heartily endorse the resolutions passed by the last Republican State Convention.

Resolved, That we have confidence in the nominees of this Convention and pledge ourselves to labor for their election.

STRIKER'S RIOT IN FALL RIVER. A serious riot occurred on Wednesday evening in Fall River, Mass., where the spinners are on a strike. A crowd of about a thousand persons assembled near Durfee's Mill, to assault the workmen as they came out, as had been done on the previous evening. The police could not disperse the mob, and one or two officers were knocked senseless with stones. The fire department was called out, and played water upon the crowd, dispersing it.

MURDER ON THE HIGHWAY. Jacob W. Pierce, a well known wealthy citizen of Boston, was shot at on Wednesday evening on the road from Waltham to his residence in Brookline, the noise frightening his horses, throwing him from the carriage and inflicting injuries of which he died yesterday morning. The man who fired the shot, probably intended robbery. The event has created much excitement, deceased being one of the leading capitalists of State street.

George Wood, Chief of the Navigation Division of the Treasury Department, and who has been engaged in the Government Civil service since 1813, died at Saratoga, Wednesday. Mr. Wood was formerly a well known author and magazine writer.

NEWS FROM THE PLANETS.

On board the Yacht Planet, Isle au Haut Thoroughfare, } Aug. 22, 1870.

To the Editors of the Whig & Courier:

Monday morning August 16th, a party consisting of Messrs. Farrington, C. D. and Edward K. Blake, Nutter, Atkins, Blake, Freese, Blood, Roberts, and Brown of Bangor, and Parker of Dedham, with Mr. E. A. Ellis for steward, left Bangor in the good Steamer "City of Richmond," for Bucksport to join the good schooner yacht "Planet," Capt. Sprague, for a cruise among the islands. We found the yacht waiting for us on our arrival, and tumbling our things on board of her in a hurry, with a fair day and fine wind, we put out. Shortly after leaving the wharf we fell in with another yacht, with a large pleasure party on board composed mostly of Bangor people, who were spending a few weeks on Long Island. About noon we ran into Islesboro, for a pilot, finding there also a large Bangor company, residents of all whom we left our morning papers.

Throughout the afternoon we still well into the evening, we enjoyed an elegant sail through Eggemoggin Reach, anchoring at Naskeag Point, where we spent our first night on board our craft and some time after that, we took with us and which had been pitched on shore.

Tuesday morning we weighed anchor and started for Bar Harbor. Shortly after noon we were overtaken by the steamer "Ralph Ross," having on board a large party from Bucksport, bound for the same place as ourselves, on a two days excursion. By the kindness of Capt. Snow and the party on board, we were taken in tow, and moored with them into Bar Harbor, where his member of our party, Mr. Stone, joined us. We found the place full of visitors, among whom were Gen. Fremont and family.

We found here also a very large company from our own city, and had calls on board of our vessel from most of those with whom we were acquainted, and among them Hons. Hannibal Hamlin, S. F. Hersey, and Capt. Llewellyn Morse. On Wednesday afternoon, having provided ourselves with over-coats and rations, we started for the top of Green Mountain, which is about 2,000 feet high, and the highest of the Mt. Desert mountains. We found the road rather a hard one, being very steep and full of small rolling stones. The foremost of the party walked it in one hour and five minutes from the wharf. Arriving at the top we found a party of young gentlemen from Boston, excursionists in the yacht "Una," a small party from Salem and vicinity, and another small one from New York and Newark. The wind was blowing strong and increased during the night to a gale, which I cannot describe better than by saying that our gale of September last, was but a gentle zephyr to it. We were inside the public house (a small building on the top of the mountain, containing on the lower floor a reception, dining and sitting room and kitchen, and also, a rough attic with a double row of bunks on either side,) and although it was well propped up on the outside by heavy logs to keep it in place, we expected every minute to be blown over. We found ourselves, however, in the morning, and went out to get the view, in which we were somewhat disappointed. The wind was still blowing hard, and the top of the mountain was completely enveloped in clouds. In about one hour these were blown away disclosing another strata of clouds rolling and blowing beneath us. To most of us this was all new and compensated in a great measure for our disappointment in not being able to get a good view of the surrounding country. After remaining on the top of the mountain till about 8 o'clock A. M., we returned to the harbor, and in the afternoon set sail for South West Harbor, where we arrived late in the afternoon, where, as at former places, we found many of our Bangor friends.

Friday afternoon we went out off Baker's Island for a fish returning at night, having had very good success. Saturday morning we weighed anchor for Cranberry Harbor, but a heavy fog rolled in, a drizzling rain commenced, the tide and wind both worked against us, so that night picked up in Bar Harbor. This was the first day at all unpleasant since we left home, every previous one being as fine as fine could be. The morning we took a fresh start, and visited our present location, where we arrived in afternoon, after one of the most delightful sails and most beautiful of the most delightful sails and most beautiful ever had. We found the harbor full of mackerel catchers, that had put in to spend the sabbath. The day was very pleasant, and that afternoon our party attended church in a body. Tomorrow we purpose to run out seaward for another fish, returning here again in the evening. Tuesday we shall probably run to Carvers's Harbor, thence to Rockland, Camden, and home, taking in all about two weeks excursion. We are all well, and we are enjoying our trip highly.

I cannot close without mentioning two great sources of our enjoyment—the urbanity and good nature of our captain, who is a host in himself, and the truly adequate provisioning that comes aboard, and the excellence of our food as prepared by our steward, Mr. Ellis. No better fare for a season of pleasure can be found than we have on board, and no table is surrounded by a more hearty set of feeders than is our, and to any worn out or business man who needs rest and something to stimulate their wasting energies, we would say, get a good yacht and go cruising, while, and if you do not more than satisfied with the experiment, we will never prescribe again.

Hoping to see you safe and sound in a few days I remain yours, &c. SOUIR.

Maine Classical School.

A delegation from the locating committee of the Maine Classical School, have visited the several places from which offers for the location of the School have been received, and have examined the building and grounds which have been offered. The decision in regard to the location will be deferred until the 1st of October, to give opportunity for rival towns and communities to make further proposals. The Committee feel that the duty imposed on them in no ordinary degree, and as the matter now stands, are exceedingly desirous that the location may be made at once. They will be happy to receive offers from any place where the people are able to guarantee the permanent location of the school, and will consider the advantages of locating in their vicinity.

All communications addressed to the undersigned at Bangor, will receive attention.

Proposals

For Opening the Channel of Union River, at Ellsworth, Me.

Proposals will be received at this office until 10 o'clock a. m. on Tuesday, the 6th of September next, for opening a channel through the slabs, edgings, saw-dust, bonders and other accumulations in Union river, between Steamboat wharf and Tinker's wharf (one half mile below).

The channel is to be opened down to the natural bed of the river, and to such width as the Engineer in charge may direct—probably not less than 100 feet nor more than 150.

Bidders will please state the amount for which they will do the job, first for a width of one hundred feet, and second, for every additional ten feet in width; the time of completion will also be stated.

Bids will also be received for doing the work by the day—stating the machinery and number of men and all the accessories necessary therefor.

Payments will be made partly per month; and 20 per cent. will be reserved thereon until the work is satisfactorily completed in time and manner.

The undersigned reserves the right to reject all bids which, in his opinion, are not favorable for the government, also the bid of any person who will not, in his opinion, faithfully and promptly perform the contract.

Persons desiring to make proposals are requested to call on the undersigned in the office in Morton Block, on Congress street, for forms of some and for more definite information. If desired, and on transmitting the bids (which must be in duplicate), they will please inform thereon "Proposals for opening the channel of Union river."

THE WAR IN EUROPE.

Metz Completely Surrounded!!

McMAHON ABANDONING CHALONS.

Movements of the Crown Prince!!

Belgian Neutrality Involved!

Rumors of a

French Victory!!

The Prince Royal Defeated by McMahon!!

DETAILS OF THURSDAY'S BATTLE.

THE PARISIANS HOPEFUL.

New York, 25th—Special to Courier des Etats Unis:—

Paris, Aug. 24th—This evening there is a decided change apparent in our military situation, within the last 48 hours. We look that upon ourselves after three weeks of disappointment and defeat, and to-morrow perhaps we shall take the offensive. Such, at leastis the opinion which prevails at the war department and throughout official circles.

NEW NATION'S REINFORCEMENTS.

Gen Trochu, before leaving Metz, massed an army of 135,000 men, which has been transferred to Marshals McMahon, whose fondest wish was to secure his communications with Marshal Bazaine, and that he succeeded I feel assured.

HIS ADVANCED POSTS

extend as far as Meyeres and Montmedy and cover the Ardennes Railroad and a hub parallel with the frontier, a fact which proves that communications with Metz are intact, as there was an arrival yesterday at Soissons of a great number of Prussians who were held as prisoners of travel, another convoy being on its way. This fact proves that this day so fiercely disputed was not without glory for us, since we have leisure to make and guard prisoners.

As for the future

PLANS OF MCMAHON,

nothing is publicly known here, and you would not receive a dispatch which I should send.

The Prince Royal seems to realize the risk which he was running, for it is affirmed here that he has retraced his steps and retreated on St Michael. It may be true, however, that he continues his march on Paris by the valley of the Aube. In any case, we are ready to receive him.

The work on

is almost finished. Yesterday the erection of the bridges at the crossways of the principal roads was completed, and bastions have been constructed at each entrance and position where the batteries will deliver an effective cross-fire.

The armament of St. Denis, Vincennes and Mont Valerien are really formidable.

ANOTHER BATTLE

occurred at Metz Sunday and ended in our favor. Something decisive is preparing in that quarter.

IS THE CROWN PRINCE AT CHALONS?

London, Aug 25—The Government has received a dispatch dated Bar-Le-Duc late evening, to the effect that Chalons has been evacuated by the French and the Prussian cavalry are west of Chalons and advancing rapidly.

OF NANCY?

Paris 24th, Midnight.—It is reported that the Prussians were at Sézanne to-day.

The Prince Royal of Prussia is reported to be at Nancy.

Nothing has been received from Metz or from the army of McMahon or Bazaine today.

BELGIAN NEUTRALITY.

Paris, 25th—The Journals of last evening demand to know what action will be taken by the French Government now that Belgium has permitted her neutrality to be broken by the Prussians.

THE SIEGE OF METZ.

London, Aug. 25.—The preparations for the siege of Metz seem formidable. The entrenchments proceed with great activity.

Paris papers are persuading themselves that Marshal Bazaine is realizing some deep laid strategem.

THE FRENCH COUNCIL.

Paris, 25th.—At the council of Ministers yesterday Gen. Winpfen, who has recently been operating against the rebels in Algeria, was appointed to the command of a corps vice Gen. Failly.

The Council is now composed of the Ministers and Rouher, Schenelder, Persigny, Baroche and Trochu.

MOVING TO PROTECT PARIS.

London, 25, noon. Marshal McMahon's entire command left Rheims on Monday morning to protect Paris. Prussian scouting parties are near Chalons, and Troyes.

Montmedy advices to the 23d, inst, mention nothing of Bazaine's junction with McMahon. Bazaine's reports find no credit, the Prussian detachments are reported at Chaumont and Bryenne.

The Paris committee of defense have given orders for the destruction of the crops and food in the departments of Marne and Seine, as the Prussians approach.

THE EMPRESS

is still at the Tuileries, hopeless and dejected it is said she has become very unpopular, on account of her bigotry.

London, Aug. 25.

STRASSEURG

is well defended, according to the telegraphic correspondent. The French armies are now well supplied with provisions of all kinds.

CHALONS

has been abandoned, it is said that the forces of the Crown Prince will today enter that city, as well as Rheims, without resistance, while Prince Frederick Charles moves on Paris direct.

THE PARIS PRESS

treats formally that the Prussians were defeated in the battle of Sunday. The Journal official says our ports are free, and our fleet will strike boldly in the North and Baltic seas. Our commerce and industry are revived, our credit is good and there can be comparison of our finances with those of the enemy.

PLAIN TALK FOR PARIS.

LaSiecle commenting on the news that the Imperial headquarters is at Rheims, says; "who cares? McMahon can only have one headquarters, the centre of operation. The Imperial headquarters can only be a superfluity, and empressment, a pretext of having battles. The crisis is too dangerous to talk of an Imperial head-quarters, anywhere near those of the Commander in chief."

The garrison at Toul made a sortie yesterday, and 700 Prussians were killed and wounded.

ABDICATION.

London, 25. It is believed that a deputation from the Corps Legislatif has gone to the Emperor to demand his abdication. The Corps Legislatif is now permanently guarded by troops. The announcement of the organization of a provisional government for France is imminent.

METZ SURROUNDED.

A dispatch from Berlin says that Metz has been completely surrounded by a strongly entrenched force of Prussians and that no attempt to sally had been made up to noon yesterday. The French stories of the Prussians having passed the Belgium frontier or transported their dead and wounded through that country, is untrue. Belgium was implored to permit it on the ground of humanity but finally declined.

Paris, Aug. 25. The La Liberte early surrounded the deputies to offer all individuals its aid in our hour of need. There have be but one grand object in view—our country. It also says, France, yesterday gained a great victory. In one day many hundreds of millions, were paid into the Treasury, while Prussia for two months has vainly sought to procure a less sum.

ON THE BATTLE-FIELD.

Michael Alexis Ney, Duke of Elchingen received three sabre cuts across the face in the battle of Gravellotte. He was promoted to a Colonelcy on the field.

The defence of Toul by the National Guard and the Garde Mobile, is described as very gallant.

At Saint Marc, Marshal Canrobert threw himself before his troops and after a short sword combat with a Prussian officer drove the enemy back.

THE PRICES OF FOOD

in the rear of the Prussian army is very advanced exorbitantly. Bread, in the Rhine land is 75 cents a loaf.

Forty-five thousand Prussian wounded have been sent to Germany. Reinforcements for the army continue to go forward.

Paris, Aug., 25. The Opinion Nationale says, to all who think more of other things than of driving the Prussians from the soil of France, it recommends the perusal of the following passage from a published planned attack: "Paris will never be in our power unless it is owing to political circumstances of moral reasons which will oblige it defenderate open to us its gates." Political circumstances, says the Opinion National, means revolution, and moral reasons means treachery."

A council of Ministers have been in session half of to-day.

It has been decided by the Committee of Defence that upon the approach of the army of the departments of the Seine and Marne and in the environs of Paris must be destroyed and greater haste is urged on the farmers to store their produce in the Government warehouses in the city before the enemy arrives at all.

The animals in the Zoological garden in the Bois de Boulogne, have been removed. Part of them have been returned into city and part sent to Belgium. Some of the animals are of great value.

More Parisian spies were take yesterday, taking plans of the works about the ladies of the river Loire. Others also have been arrested here and some can have been detected with the group of McMahon. A remarkable have been received from Dublin, for the aid of the wounded, the Empress Eugenie sends a large contribution in a note, in which she says, "I thank you for the wounded French, I receive it with gratitude, the generous sentiments which have inspired this act, and your wishes for the success of our arms and the happiness of the imperial family, have profoundly touched his Majesty."

HOPE OF A FRENCH VICTORY.

London, 25. There was great excitement in the city this afternoon, over a rumor on the Stock Exchange, that the Prussian army under the Crown Prince had been defeated by the French, under Marshal McMahon.

Paris, 25—Evening. The Figaro this afternoon contains the following: A person who arrived from the vicinity of Epernay this evening states that the Prussian forces have retreated during the night between Verdun and Chalons.

FURTHER EVIDENCE.

Paris, 10—9 P. M. The Figaro has just issued an Extra with the following. A person who arrived in Paris at 5 o'clock tonight, direct from Epernay, reports that he heard it rumored in that city that the Prussian forces retreated to-day between Verdun and Chalons. Groups of Prussian stragglers have arrived. Infantry were continually coming to Chalons. The retreat commenced this morning at 5 o'clock and the news reached Chalons and Epernay at about 8 o'clock p. m. Nothing definite is stated as to the number of men engaged, but accordant rumor ascribes the entire army to Prince Charles, was in the fight. An official message said to evacuate Epernay tomorrow.

Trains going out on the railway from Paris to Epernay stopped at Coulmiers, Tillery, which is now the terminus of the line.

THE MARCH ON PARIS.

London 25—7.20 p. m. The Prussian Headquarters state that King William's headquarters have been removed from Pont-a-Mousson to Nancy, to-day. The headquarters of the Third and Fourth corps are at Metz, while the fourth corps continue their march on Paris.

Paris, 7th. The Journal official this evening says that the union of all the new stocks at the Ministry of the Interior is that the Prussian will push their cavalry and infantry into the Department of Marne, and even into the town of Chalons.

The Prefect of the Department of the Upper Marne announces that a portion of the Northern Army of Germany is occupied by the Prussian forces, and orders have been given to march on Paris.

The Prussian will be opposed by every obstacle which the patriotism of the people can suggest, in addition to the systematic measures which will be executed under the direction of engineer officers sent out by the government.

An official warning is given by the Minister of the Interior that he will be forced to apply the law regulating siege press with the utmost severity if certain journals in spite of all other representations of the government, continue to publish reports of the movements of troops, statistics of the fortifications and the compositions of the armies.

The national loan has been closed, more than the amount required was subscribed.

Gen Trochu reviewed the Garde Mobile yesterday. The men made a fine appearance.

Paris 25. A dispatch from Rheims, the 23d, says that it was supposed that the armies of McMahon and Bazaine had effected a junction, Quadrilateral composed of the fortresses of Montmedy, Verdun, Thionville, and Metz, would await an attack, it was not expected that any important engagement would occur within two days.

The Emperor quitted Camelitz, last night and goes to Berne in the Canton of Ribeine, yesterday the Imperial headquarters were at Chalons.

The grain mills in the Valley of Seine and Marne, at all their contents which could not be removed, have been purposely burned.

London, 27th—The City of Hamburg is filled with troops with the French from Metzals blockading Cuxhaven.

The Belgians intimate that the complaint of the French, that the Prussia wounded are allowed to cross the Belgian territory, is a mere pretext for and intended violation of the soil.

Prince Felix Salm-Salm, a Major in the Prussian Guard, distinguished for his services in the American and Mexican wars, was killed on the 18th at Gravellotte.

LATEST NEWS IN BRIEF.

The affairs of the Brooklyn Central Bank are said to be turning out much worse than was anticipated. Depositors will not realize more than 75 per cent of their claims, and the stockholders lose their stock and the personal value in addition.

Sixty of the heirs of Sir Francis Drake met in New York, Wednesday, to take measures for the recovery of the estate in England amounting to one hundred and twenty five million of dollars. The principal business was to provide for the payment of expenses already incurred.

The West India and Panama cable is being laid at the rate of 5 miles an hour, and the expedition was expected to reach Santiago yesterday noon.

There are heavy fires in the woods along the boundary between New Brunswick and Maine, and villages in Charlotte County are suffering severely.

The Ely Flouring Mills, at Utica, N. Y. were destroyed by fire yesterday morning, together with 1300 barrels of flour, 1000 bushel of wheat, 70 tons of mill feed and 1000 empty flour barrels. Loss $85,000; insurance $27,000.

Five hundred members of the Clapp family held a reunion at Northampton, Mass., on Wednesday. A. M. Clapp, Congressional Printer, presided over the exercises, and addresses were delivered by Rev. Dr. Alexander H. Clapp of New York and others.

Dalker, the New York saloon keeper, who fatally stabbed the deaf mute O'Brien, with an ice pick, a few days since, was discharged on Wednesday on the ground of justifiable homicide.

The delay of the government officials in proceeding against the steamer Florida, seized on Saturday, on the affidavit of an unknown complainant, is severely condemned by the leading papers and merchants of New York.

—The "Lewiston Journal" says that Mr. Paul of South Dover, seventy-one years old recently in one day did her week's ironing spun seven skeins of yarn, walked about one third of a mile and picked two quarts of raspberries, besides attending to the usual household duties.

LOCAL AND OTHER ITEMS.

—Police Court itemless.

—The drouth is broken.

—Thirty-two vessels arrived at this port yesterday.

—Another load of earth was hauled from Centre street hill, yesterday.

—Lightning rods have been placed on the Universalist Church.

—A Teachers' Institute for Penobscot County will be held in this city, Sept. 26th.

—Another street sprinkler gave up and laid down on Exchange street, yesterday. A weak axle was the cause of it.

—Capt. William E. Stevens, formerly of the Bangor Daily Times, now of the Boston Journal, is in town on a brief visit.

—A new cross-walk is being laid across Middle street, at its junction with Main street.

—Yesterday must have admonished the pleasure seekers at the summer resorts that it is time to pack up.

—Peaches retail at the shops for 20 to 40 cents per dozen and are not very good at that. The presence of the "peach-man" on the street will probably tend to lower the price.

—Several young ladies who have adopted the two-queue style of wearing their back hair, attract considerable notice when they appear on our streets.

—The 16th annual Cattle Show and fair of the West Penobscot Agricultural Society will be held on the grounds of the Society in Exeter, Sept 27th, 28th and 29th, 1870.

—Tickets for the Safford-Hoffman concert sold rapidly yesterday. This company will give a concert in Hayford Hall, Belfast, on Wednesday evening next, where the same programme will be performed which they give here Monday evening.

—The Universalist Sunday Schools of Lee and Springfield come upon an excursion to this city to-day and will remain here between the hours of 8 a. m. and 4 p. m. The Society and Sunday School here with their friends are expected to meet with them at the Universalist Church during the hours of their stay.

ACCIDENT. A young man named Harold Perkins, employed in Colman's mill at Veazie, in some manner fell upon a circular saw in rapid motion, yesterday afternoon, and was horribly mutilated, his thigh being cut to the bone, a hand could be laid in the wound, one bone of his right forearm sawed off, and the flesh torn in a shocking manner. The Drs. Seavey were called, who dressed the wounds and made a resection of the shattered bone, but the prospect of saving the man is very doubtful.

REFERENCE. The hearing of the case of the Contractors for the construction of the Bangor & Piscataquis Railroad against the Bangor & Piscataquis Railroad Company commenced at the Court-House in this city on Monday, before the referees, Hon. R. D. Rice of Augusta, Hon. Anson P. Morrill of Readfield and Phineas Barnes, Esq., of Portland. Hon. Wm. P. Frye of Lewiston appears for the Contractors and Hon. John A. Peters and A. G. Wakefield for the Company. The hearing will probably continue a week longer.

RESIGNATION. The venerable Rev. Dr. Pond, who has been connected with the Bangor Theological Seminary for about forty years, occupying some one of the Professorships, and sometimes two—during all that time, who has seen the institution grow from infancy to full stature, who will be ever remembered by the numerous graduates with almost filial affection, has reached a good old age, and has resigned his seat a Professor, the resignation to take effect when a successor shall be found. He retires with an annuity of one thousand dollars, and the prayers of a host through life.

HORSE TROT AT WATERVILLE. An occasional correspondent informs us that the trot for the sulky purse at Waterville, Wednesday, was won by Lady Fairfield, owned in Skowhegan, defeating Lady Burleigh, owned in Fairfield. Time 2 4½, 2 4½, 2.38. The race was very close and exciting. One, page of our correspondent's letter, descriptive of the race between Cushnoc, Delaney, Gelding and Butte, Ball, owned at Somerset Mills, was inadvertently left out, so we are unable to give the result.

HORSE TROT. Some very exciting races were trotted at the Exeter Trotting Park Wednesday, the horses being very closely matched in all the races.

The first race, for gentlemen's carriage horses, was won by Capt. Reed's Black Hawk of this city.

In the second race, for horses that never beat 2:50, there were five entries: Black Hawk, Dividend, John O'Gaunt, Unknown, Gray Stranger and Dolly Bidwell. The first heat was won by Black Hawk, the other three and race by F. S. Palmer's horse Dividend.

The match race between Sherry David and Joe Hooker was won by the former in three straight heats.

For the sweepstakes there were four entries: Bully Brooks, Gen. Sherman, Abdallah and Lady Hamilton. Gen. Sherman was drawn on account of lameness. Abdallah won the first two heats—time 2:11, 2:14.—The next three and race were won by Timothy Bully's horse, Bully Brooks—time 2:13, 2:10, 2:40.

Considerable money changed hands in this race, Brooks admirers holding steadfast to his ability to win the race, which he did, trotting handsomely every heat.

—Mrs. Towne of Sebec, whose age is ninety-three, walked one day this summer from Dover village to Sebec, a distance of six miles. Mrs. Towne is a pedestrian of no doubtful reputation, having, besides other feats, walked over Charleston hill this season, says the Lewiston Journal.

THE EXCURSION TO MATTAWAMKEAG.—The excursion up river yesterday to the European & North American Railroad, was a monster affair. At about half-past seven a. m. a train of thirteen cars, closely packed, left the station at the foot of Exchange St., many being left behind, unable even to procure standing room. Accessions were received at Veazie and Orono, and at Oldtown five platform cars were added to the train and were quickly filled to repletion. The number on board was at least sixteen hundred, being the largest excursion party which ever left our city, and not less than two to three hundred were left behind here and at way stations, for want of room. The train arrived at Mattawamkeag at eleven o'clock, where an hour was spent in looking over the place. Coming down to Winn, another hour was spent in looking over the tannery buildings, &c., when the train came to Passadumkeag arriving at quarter before two and remaining until quarter before five, the party employing their time in lunching, dancing, fishing, boating and such other methods as suited their individual fancy on opportunity. The party arrived home at a little past seven, without accident, and much pleased with their trip. Their obligations are due to Mr. Jas. P. Pugington, the gentlemanly and attentive conductor, for taking the large number under his care to Mattawamkeag and returning them to their homes without accident or unpleasant incident of any kind.

FUNERAL OF CARLOS PIERCE, ESQ. The funeral of the late Carlos Pierce took place Tuesday at Stanstead, Canada, from his residence in that place. The whole town was in mourning. Business was generally suspended, the stores were appropriately draped, and emblems expressive of the grief of the people were suspended across the streets. Prayers were held at his late residence, and the body was then taken to the Methodist Church, a fine, large edifice which his liberality aided. Over a thousand persons were present at the services. The remains were carried to the grave in an open catafalque, drawn by four white horses trimmed with black, a groom leading each horse. The funeral procession consisted of thirty carriages and five hundred persons on foot. At Derby Line the English flag was at half-mast, and the American flag at the hotel and post office was also lowered in respect to the deceased. His brothers Messrs. C. W. Pierce and Henry W. Pierce, were present. He leaves a widow, the daughter of William H. Mills, Esq., of this city, but no children.

—The Argus says that on the Portland & Ogdensburg railroad the rails were laid to within two miles of the Lake, last Saturday, and it is expected that they will be to the Lake by next Saturday, and the road opened to the Lake for general business by September 12th.

—A correspondent of the Portland Transcript, at Mason, Oxford County, writes as follows:—"I have read an account of an eleven-year old girl who can manage a sewing machine, and of a seven-year old boy in Paris who can run a Wood mower with ease; but N. G. Mills of this town, has a five-year old boy, who recently mowed one-eighth of an acre with a Buckeye machine, managing the horses and mower alone."

—Poland Conferencing is in progress.

—At the annual meeting of the Directors of the International Telegraph Co., held in Portland, last week, the following officers were re-elected for the ensuing year: E. C. Bailey of Boston, President; S. F. Hersey of Bangor, Vice-President; Wm. E. Gould of Portland, Clerk and Treasurer; A. D. Brown of Portland, Superintendent. A regular semi-annual dividend of four per cent. was declared payable to stock-holders June 30th, and after Sept. 1st, 1870, at the office of Henry P. Wood, in Portland. This is one per cent. more than any previous payment.

—W. H. Higgins of Abbott, was thrown from his carriage in consequence of his horse taking fright on the 19th inst., and his leg seriously, and his friends fear, fatally injured.

—The Alumni of the Little Blue School at Farmington, with their friends will have a grand reunion at the school on Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 21st and 22d.

—A Boston dispatch says that the third game of the Dirigos of Augusta came off yesterday afternoon, and resulted in a victory for the Charleston club, the Unds, who defeated their opponents by the large score of 38 to 17.

THE Central Railroad, of Iowa,
235 MILES IN LENGTH.
NOW NEARLY COMPLETED.
This Company are now pushing their work forward with great rapidity, and the entire line necessary to connect St. Louis and St Paul is graded and under contract to be finished this season. The fact that this enterprise has been undertaken by a combination of leading bankers and railroad capitalists of well known wealth, experience, and ability insures its early completion and future success.
The road runs through the richest and most thickly settled portion of Iowa, and is built in the interest of the great Northern system of roads which centre in St Paul. The First Mortgage Bonds
of the Company pay 7 per cent. Gold Interest, free of Government tax, and are issued for the very small amount of $16,000 per mile. For the present, the unsold portion are offered at 95 and accrued interest. The attention of investors is invited to the fact that the road is now nearly finished, and that the Security is therefore entitled to a high rank.
In our opinion, no class of investments has been found so uniformly safe and profitable as First Mortgages on completed railroads.
Of 235 companies operating 30,000 miles of railroad in the Northern and Western States, in which there is a bonded debt of $662,000,000, we know of but two that do not pay their interest regularly.
We believe there will be no more favorable time to sell Government, and buy really First-class Railroad Securities—such as those—than the present.

THE COVERED BRIDGE.

BY DAN MARKER.

The following beautiful poem has been published, and as its appearance in the N. A. Daily Post, was made the subject of a highly complimentary note to the author from the poet-orator poet William Cullen Bryant, we will insert it and do ourselves the pleasure to gratify a desire for its publication.

I.

Tell the fainting soul in the weary form
There's a world of the purest bliss,
That is linked, as that soul and form are,
By a covered bridge with this.

II.

(Yet, to reach that realm on the other shore
We must pass through a fretted gloom.
And must walk unseen, unheeded and alone
Through that covered bridge—the tomb

III.

But we all pass over on equal terms,
For the uniform toll
Is the outer garb, which the hand of God
Has flung around the soul.

IV.

Though the eye is dim and the bridge is long
And the river it spans is wide;
Yet faith points through to a shining now
That looms on the other side

V.

To enable our feet in the next day's race
To climb up that golden ridge,
We must all lie down for a time night's rest
Beside of the covered bridge.

READY FOR A DUEL.

Our regiment was stationed at Mr. Ford's. Our Colonel had been shot by Indian guerrilla, and our Lieutenant-Colonel had gone home sick, and so the command devolved on our Major, whose name was Farwell. He was a middle-aged, dashing, given to social enjoyment, and as a thing, keeping on pretty friendly terms therewithout him. He was a kind-hearted generous man, though troubled with a fear that led him into error at times.

Major Farwell had been in command a few weeks when he concluded to send for his wife to come and stay with him three summer. He had comfortable and cozy quarters and there was little danger the Indians would make another attack.

I was on a foraging expedition when Farwell arrived; but I remembered on the evening day and was in season to attend the party which the Major gave on the occasion. Staff and line officers not kept away, or were all present, and joy and merriment the hour.

Mrs. Farwell was younger than her husband, a pretty woman, bearing herself with grace and dignity, without any effect of affectation. She assumed no needless reserve, but treated her guests with kindness and consideration; seemingly only anxious that all should feel at home and enjoy themselves.

In that far-off region the laws of hospitality were not strictly adhered to; on the present occasion, we had not only many bottles of wine, but several Bourbon were included in the bill of fare. Towards midnight the ladies withdrew, the officers were not quite ready to follow. The Major was in high spirits, and some story, with flowing goblets, gave occasion. By and by I proposed a toast, "Major Farwell," and it was drank with hearty cheers. Why in the world the Major should have taken offense, I could not comprehend; but he did so, and intimated that I had better not make too free with his name.

"Egad! I replied, without stopping to weigh my words, "if you must know, a handsome lady requested me to do so, and I did not to have brought her home."

"Capt. Willet," he cried, rising to his feet, "if you mention the lady's name again, I will kick you from my quarters."

I started from my seat, when Lieut. Walker who was sitting by my side, pulled me back.

"Zounds!" he uttered, in a hurried whisper, "don't you say another word." The thought crossed my mind, and he's a bit jealous, too. Can't you see it?"

As Walker spoke it flashed upon me. Mrs. Farwell had been very attentive to me. She danced with me four or five times, and promenaded with me on the piazza. But I could not bear such language as the Major Farwell had addressed to me, and in spite of my friend's remonstrance, I retorted to him. My blood was heated with whiskey, I cared no more for the commanding officer at that time, than I would have cared for a drummer boy.

"Sir," I replied with an oath, I need not repeat, "you would have a fine time of it, I tell you! Perhaps you had better try it now."

The Major sprang toward me and seized me by the collar. I thought at the time he meant to strike; but I was subsequently convinced that he did not. But I struck on the cheek with the flat of my hand.

With a hissing oath he drew a pistol from his pocket, but before he could use it the Lieutenant caught his arm, and three or four of my friends hurried me from the room and from the room into my own quarters.

On the following morning I awoke with anything but a pleasant feeling, and when I remembered what had transpired during the previous night, I felt wretched enough. I cursed the wine cup and the whiskey bottle from the bottom of my heart, and inwardly resolved I would touch the stuff no more. Still, I was forced to take a stiff hot toddy to steady my nerves; and, after I had dressed myself, sat down to a cup of coffee. I was thus engaged when our Adjutant, Mr. Bowker, entered my quarters. He bade him good morning, and asked him if he would not take some breakfast with me.

"Not now," he said, shaking his head. "I have called upon business. Ah! Captain, this is a bad affair. Do you remember that you struck the Major last evening?"

"Yes, I remember it very well, remember too well."

"He expects you will make an apology, pursued the Adjutant.

"And if I do not?"

"Then you must fight him."

"You were present Bowker during the entire scene?"

"Yes."

"Then I wish you to tell me the truth, I am free to confess that my head was in a bit of a whirl last night. First, I drank a toast to Mrs. Farwell, give him the least occasion for ill-feeling."

"I could see none, Captain; but your memory he had been drinking."

"Exactly—and in that we were even—I he not, in the presence of the whole company threaten me from his quarters?"

"Yes."

"And did he not lay hands upon me before I strike him?"

"I cannot be positive, but I think he did."

"Then," said I, drinking the last of my coffee, "I shall make no apology."

"You will remember, Captain," suggested Bowker, "that the Major is a dead shot, and in the handling of a sword he has no superior."

"I care nothing for that," I knew the temper of our officers, and I knew I should be held in light esteem if I allowed the Major to back me down. Once more Bowker asked me if I would apologize.

I told him most emphatically, "No."

"Then I have instructions to deliver this note," he added.

He handed me an unsealed missive, which I found to be a challenge, and by it I was informed that Adjutant Bowker was empowered to make all necessary arrangements.

My warmest friend in the regiment was First Lieutenant named Walker, and I sent for him at once, desiring him to act as my second. At first he tried to dissuade me from fighting, but when he found that I would not retract, he consented to serve me, though I could see very plainly that he liked not the business. However, he asked me if I had any instructions to give him.

"Only two items," I replied. "First, I will fight with pistols, and second, as my nerves are somewhat unstrung, I would like the affair put off till to-morrow morning."

Walker went off with the Adjutant, and when he returned he informed him that the arrangements were all made. We were to meet at seven o'clock the following morning, weapons pistols—distance twelve paces—one second to stand for choice of positions—to fire at the word of command.

After dinner I sat down to arrange my affairs. I wrote several letters, which I sealed and inclosed in a single envelope, to be sent off by my clerk in case I should fall. My property I gave to Walker's charge, with instructions how to dispose of it. When matters had been thus arranged, it was well toward evening, and taking a light cane in my hand, I walked out for a breath of fresh air.

Not far from the camp were Morgan's Falls, a wild, romantic spot, where the water of the river tumbled over a huge bed of broken rocks, and toward that spot I bent my steps. Just above the Falls was a bridge of logs, from which could be obtained one of the grandest scenes that ever blessed the eye of an artist. As I reached the summit of an eminence near the Falls, I saw a woman and a child standing, as I ascended into the shrubbery. It was just emerging from a thicket, when a sharp, piercing cry of agony broke upon my ear. I sprang to the bridge, and there I saw the woman—alone.

ADDRESS

TO THE

NERVOUS

DEBILITATED,

Whose sufferings have been protracted from hidden causes, and whose case requires prompt treatment to render existence desirable. If you are suffering, or have suffered, from involuntary discharges, what effect does it produce upon your general health? Do you feel weak, debilitated, easily tired? Does a little extra exertion produce palpitation of the heart? Does your liver, or urinary organs, or your kidneys frequently get out of order? Is your urine sometimes thick, milky or cloudy, or is it ropy on settling? or does a thick slum rise to the top? Or is a sediment at the bottom after it has stood awhile? Do you have spells of short breathing or dyspepsia? Are your bowels constipated? Do you have spells of fainting, or rushes of blood to the head? Is your memory impaired? Is your mind constantly dwelling on this subject? Do you feel dull, listless, moping, tired of company, of life? Do you wish to be left alone, to get away from everybody? Does any little thing make you start or jump? Is your sleep broken or restless? Is the luster of your eye as brilliant? The bloom on your cheek as bright? Do you enjoy yourself in society as well? Do you pursue your business with the same energy? Do you feel as much confidence in yourself? Are your spirits dull and flagging, given to fits of melancholy? If so, do you not by it, your liver or dyspepsia. Have you restless nights? Your back weak, your urine weak, and have but little appetite, and attribute this to dyspepsia or liver complaint?

Now, reader, self-abuse, referred diseases hereditary, and sexual excesses, are all capable of producing a weakness of the generative organs. Therefore, if the generative organs are in perfect health, make the man. Did you ever think how bold, defiant, energetic, persevering, successful business men are always those whose vital organs are in perfect health? Do you never hear of such men being melancholy, for the weakness of palpitation of the heart? They are never afraid, they cannot succeed in business, they never become sad and discouraged, they are always polite and pleasant in the company of ladies, and look you and them right in the face—none of your cowards too, or any of these mealmouths about them. I do not mean those who know the evil and sin of indulging to excess. These will not only ruin their constitutions, but also those they do business with.

Many men from body cured diseases, from the effects of self-abuse and excesses, have brought that state of weakness in those organs which has reduced the general system so much as to induce almost every other disease—like consumption, epilepsy, spinal affections, suicide, and insanity, preceding into the grave. Now, every other form of disease which humanity is heir to, and the real cause of the trouble is scarcely ever suspected, and have been cured for all but the right one.

Diseases of these organs require the use of a diuretic.
